

CNET Networks Deutschland moves into the “StadtQuartier Riem Arcaden in der Messestadt” development

Hamburg-based DIFA Deutsche Immobilien Fonds AG has signed a lease with CNET Networks Deutschland for around 1,900 square metres of space, in a deal brokered by Atis Real. From January 2007, this new space will accommodate some 40 CNET Networks Deutschland employees.

CNET Networks Inc. is a leading global provider of channel and technology-related information, data and services. It connects purchasers, vendors and distributors across the entire IT value chain. CNET Networks operates in 12 countries, with offices in the USA, Asia and Europe. CNET Networks is represented in Germany by ZDNet.de, CNET.de and silicon.de. These three online brands are responsible for keeping their respective audiences informed about the latest trends in IT and consumer electronics by providing them with up-to-the-minute news, analysis and product reviews.

Tenants of the Riem Arcaden benefit from the synergies offered by this StadtQuartier concept, with close proximity to cafés and restaurants, shops, leisure and fitness facilities making this a pleasant working environment. The excellent transport links and underground station on the doorstep are two additional practical advantages for employees.

The "StadtQuartier Riem Arcaden in der Messestadt" development is a joint project between DIFA Deutsche Immobilien Fonds AG and Essen-based mfi Management für Immobilien AG. It is part of the DIFA-Fonds Nr. 1 portfolio.
