

PRESS RELEASE

Nine international startups are nominated for world's first PropTech Innovation Award Ceremony

- Union Investment and German Tech Entrepreneurship Center want to find the most innovative startups that have the potential to disrupt the real estate industry
- Over 200 applications from 46 countries
- Live pitches in front of audience and jury on May 17, 2017 in Berlin

Berlin, May 4th 2017 – Union Investment and the German Tech Entrepreneurship Center (GTEC), Europe's first private campus for entrepreneurship, are hosting the world's first PropTech Innovation Award. Its goal is to award innovative ideas that have the potential to disrupt the real estate industry on a global level. Startups around the world have been asked to apply. The criteria were intentionally broad because disruption often comes from companies that are not part of the industry.

Over 200 Startups from 46 nations sent in their applications. From that pool, Union Investment and GTEC selected nine companies for the final round. The finalists will pitch their ideas on May 17, 2017 in Berlin in front of a live audience. The total prize money is 35.000 Euro. On top of that, the winner will get a spot in the recently-opened new GTEC Lab in Frankfurt am Main. There they will get free office space and access to the GTEC network of mentors and investors.

Invitation to the award ceremony on May 17

The PropTech Innovation Award ceremony will take place on May 17 in Berlin-Mitte. As the introduction, Ragnar Lifthrasir, founder of the International Blockchain Real Estate Association, will give a keynote about blockchain in real estate. This will pave the way to the live pitches of the nine finalists. Lifthrasir will also moderate the panel discussion about change through digitisation in classic industries. On the panel are Jörn Stobbe of Union Investment, Christian Schulz-Wulkow, MD at Ernst&Young Real Estate, Dr. Dirk Hecker, MD at Fraunhofer Allianz Big Data, and Prof. Wolfgang Schäfers, Professor of Real Estate Management, IREBS, all of whom are also members of the jury.

Highlight of the day will be the announcement of the three best startups and the awarding of the prizes, followed by a get-together with snacks and drinks and also interview opportunities.

Journalists are hereby cordially invited. Please use the following link to register:
